My ancestor's services in assisting in the establishment of American Independence during the War of the Revolution were as follows:

Andrew Knox (1727-1807), of Whippany, Montgomery Co., Penna., was commissioned on June 6, 1777 Justice of the Court of Common Pleas for the City and County of Philadelphia, and was Chairman of the Committee of Correspondence for Whippany. His active services caused the Commander of the British forces in Philadelphia to offer a reward of 10 Guineas each to any who would capture him. In Jan. 1778, four Tories, by name Enoch Supplee, Robert Jones, John Stothers, Abisha Wright & Com. Thurlow, attempted his capture. Mr. Knox was called to the door on the pretense that it was a messenger from his brother-in-law, Capt. White. The door was chained and only partly opened, and when the party attempted to force an entrance an encounter ensued. The Tories fired through the door and the opening. Mr. Knox defended it with a broadsword and his young son Robert (1756-1804) fired upon the party from an upper window. Ball-holes in the high wooden mantel and inner door, and eleven holes in the outer door, still preserved, attest the severity of the fight. Mr. Knox was finally struck in the thigh by a ball and lame for life. But as he was wounded help came from his Whig neighbors and the Tories retreated. Stothers was wounded and tracked in the snow and captured nearly; and from information obtained from him, Wright and Thurlow were also taken; the other two escaped to the British lines below Barron Hill. The captives were taken to Mr. Kings. On the way Thurlow became stubborn and was hanged on a walnut tree at the entrance to the drive to the Kings house. Mr. Knox ordered the other two to be taken to the nearest military post, at Montgomery Square, and there Wright was also hanged. Stouffer was let go, as it appeared he was forced to go with the party.

Matthew Knox, a younger brother of Gen. Knox, was commissioned, Dec. 6. 1776, 1st Lieut. in the 3d. Penna. Line Col. John Shee. He was made a Captain on Oct. 11. 1776 and was captured at Fort Washington on Nov. 16. 1776 and held prisoner until Oct. 28. 1778.

William Knox, another younger brother, was commissioned Dec. 4. 1776, 2d. Lieut. in 10th Penna. Line. Col. Joseph Penruie, was 1st Lieut. April 30. 1777, became a Superannuated July 1. 1778.

My father's ancestors during the Revolution were Swiss Mennonites and English Quakers, and non-combatants by reason of their faith.

Do not encroach on this margin which is needed for binding.

The following are references to the authorities for the above statements:

- I Story as told me by an eye witness, Mrs. Robert (McNeely) Knox, wife of the Robert Knox mentioned. She was born Feb. 11. 1770 & died March 22. 1830. As a young girl she was in the house at the time of the attack and died there. The names of the men & details given are taken from a recollection written in 1835 by Mr. Isaac Mc Glathey, one of the remaining party and a relation of Mrs. Knox.
